+ Stages of Growth

MMX is a new gTLD registry operator

Every registry operator has two phases of growth:

- Phase 1: Acquire and deploy top-level domains
- Phase 2: Operating and managing top-level domain

Each phase is unique (almost 2 different companies)

- Phase 1: Raise capital, build infrastructure, apply to ICANN for TLDs, win TLDs at auction or through deals
- Phase 2: Market and sell second-level domain names via ICANN registrars, market-specific distributors, premium name sales

MMX is near the end of Phase 1 and starting Phase 2

+ Stages of Growth: Phase 1

minds

Acquire and deploy new top-level domains

Applied to ICANN during application window (early 2012)

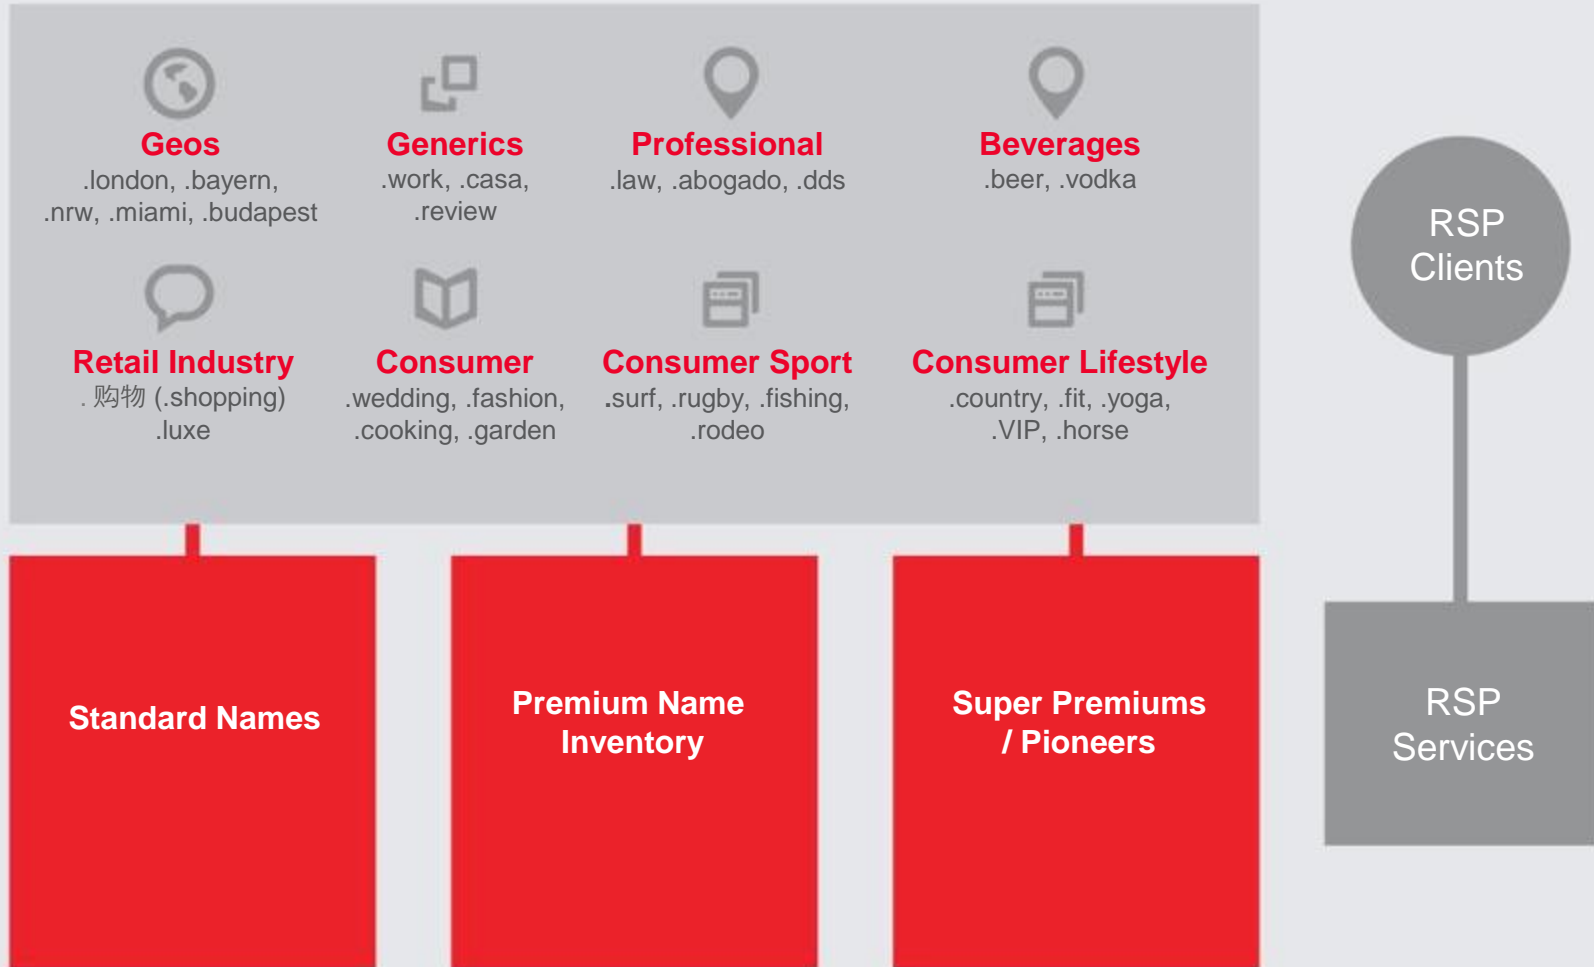

- Some applications were uncontested – no auction
- Others had more than one applicant – auction
- Long evaluation process by ICANN (~2 yrs)

Raised $33M in January 2014 to participate in auctions

- Added $23M to cash reserves, won 9 great TLDs
- Private auction dynamic where winners pay losers
- Tech-heavy process to build registry and pass ICANN testing

+ MMX's portfolio structure

+ Stages of Growth: Phase 2

minds
+ machines

Operate and manage top-level domains

Move from tech-heavy (Phase 1) to sales-and-marketing led

- Engage ICANN registrar channel (GoDaddy, etc.)
- Engage communities targeted by relevant top-level domain
- Develop TLD-specific distribution channels

New personnel, new expertise for Phase 2

- Restructuring for greater emphasis on sales and marketing
- Phase 1 nearly over; Phase 2 ramping up

Current situation: great TLD portfolio, great cash reserves

Transition: Phase 1 to Phase 2
